

ANDREW BLAKE TRIBUTE AWARD

The Andrew Blake Tribute Award commemorates the work and life of Andrew Blake, who suffered from Friedrich's ataxia, a hereditary condition described as one of the "worst of neurological diseases". Andrew died in May 2002 aged 39. Andrew was passionate about the need to support scientists in their work and his commitment to speaking out against animal rights activists took up much of the last ten years of his life. He died shortly before he was to collect his MBE.

DETAILS OF THE AWARD

This Award is given annually, where sponsorship allows, to the Animal Technician/Technologist judged to have made the most significant contribution to improving standards in laboratory animal welfare over the previous twelve months.

All qualified Animal Technologists are guided in their work by the Institute of Animal Technology's Ethical Statement:

In the conduct of their Professional duties Animal Technologists have a moral and legal obligation, at all times, to promote and safeguard the welfare of animals in their care, recognising that good laboratory animal welfare is an essential component of good laboratory animal technology and science. The Institute recognises and supports the application of the principles of the 3Rs (Replacement, Reduction, Refinement) in all areas of animal research.

The Award is made to acknowledge the professional and personal commitment of Animal Technologists to improving standards in all aspects of laboratory animal care and welfare.
